And finally:- As we continue on our journey toward the end of another Liturgical Year, the liturgy over the past few weeks has been focusing our attention on some of the key aspects of the Christian life. Two weekends ago we looked at faith; last weekend hope; and this weekend our attention is draw toward prayer. In today's Gospel passage our Blessed Lord urges us to "pray continually". This exact theme is also taken up in St. Paul's 1st Letter to the Thessalonians. So what is prayer? How do we "pray without ceasing"? Prayer is, of course, a natural feature of a life based upon a faith filled hope in God's loving kindness. It is a two-way channel of communication, both speaking and listening, which exists between the beloved, you and me, and the lover, God. So to "pray continually" means to live at all times with that channel of communication open. It does not mean spending 24hrs a day on our knees, but to be ever present to God in our daily living, sharing our lives with Him, and allowing Him to share His life with us.

May God bless you all. Fr. Craig
